SOUND STEAMBOAT TRAFFIC.

CHANGES BY THE ABSORPTION OF THE NEW HAVEN LINE.

Traffic From This Part of the Country Into New England-Competition to Be Ended.

NEW HAVEN, April 21.-President John M. Hall of the New Haven Railroad, which has just secured control of the New Haven Steamboat Company, made a statement to-day in which he confirmed the story that his road is now in assession of the steamboat line. As a result of the purchase of the property the New Haven road will abandon the Narragansett Bay Line. that has been operated by the New Haven Steamboat Company, with the commencement of summer trade. Hereafter there will be no nished by the John H. Starin Transportation, which runs between this city and New York, ntention of running a boat line from Providence south to Philadelphia and other places. The Sound boat business is now practically in the hands of the Consolidated Road. Its various lines will run out of New York as feeders to the different sections; the New Haven Steamhoat Company to this city, the Norwich Line to New London, the Stonington Line to Ston-Ington, and the Providence Line to Fall River

WOMAN BRIDGE JUMPER.

Too Nervous Yesterday to Talk About Her Plunge or Her Troubles.

Miss Marie Readle Dince, the young woman who jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge on Friday afternoon, was still in the Hudson street he pital last night. She was too nervous to be moved or to talk about the troubles which led her to attempt to end her life. Only two persons tried to see her during the day. One was Mrs. A. I. Blanchard of 314 West Twenty third street, with whom Miss Rinse had made her home since Mrs. Blanchard turned the Naudins out of her house Wednesday. The other was a Mrs. Leech on wednesday. The other was a Mrs. Leoch. Neither of them saw Miss Dinse, and the latter said she had no desire to see Mrs. Blanchard.

The Naudins who went to board at 205 Uest Twenty first street, after Mrs. Blanchard turned them out of her house, left home early vesterday mertning. Before they left both declared that there was nothing wrong in their transactions with Miss Dinse and that the money she had lost in their this toylor of the said o enterprise was as nothing compared ROCHESTER, April 21.-Mrs. Alice Marling 56 years of age, was found by a policeman in the apartments of "Dr." Louis Kircher, at 501 Joseph evenue, this morning, with her face and clothing spattered with blood and a dozen ugly gashes in her head. The woman was unconscious. She was placed in an ambulance and taken to the Homosopathic Hospital. The police set about examining the apartments where the woman was found. There was blood all about, and under the bed they found a revolver, the butt of which was matted with blood and hair. Two of the chambers had recently been discharged.

Shortly before noon Mrs. Marling recovered onsciousness, and she was able to converse. She said that last night she was at the house of competition for Sound business but that fur- her next-door neighbor, taking care of a sick woman, and that "Dr." Kircher, whom she had known for some time, called at her home about and the Clyde Line, which has announced its 9 o'clock. She was summoned from the neighbor's house by one of the children, and she talked with Kircher in her front yard. He is an artist, as well as a magnetic physician, and he told her that he had some new paintings at his apartments that he desired to show her. He persuaded her in this way to accompany him to his apartments at 501 Joseph avenue, although she had at first told him that she could not go away and leave her children.

NOTES OF LEGAL EVENTS.

The Executive Committee of the National Asociation of Referees in Bankruptcy has just published an interesting and valuable report concerning the practical operation of the Bankrupt act of 1898. A convention of these referees was held at Chicago in July last, at which this executive committee was appointed. The chairman is Mr. William H. Hotchkiss, of Buffalo, whose name has frequently been mentioned among the candidates for District Judge of the United States for the new Western District of New York. He is one of the best known referees in bankruptcy in the country, having taken special interest in his work as such from the beginning. The report of his committee finds much to commend in the Bankrupt law and declares that as a whole it has reduced litigation between debtor and creditor by onehalf, transferring lawyers' and sheriffs' fees to that extent into dividends for creditors. Claims are said to be easily and cheaply proven, dividends are paid without appreciable expense and we are told that "the intervention of an attorney is in ordinary cases unnecessary." The most serious objection is made to that feature of the law which gives the right to demand a jury trial, without provision for the This enables the bankrupt's attorney to delay the proceedings indefinitely in districts where there are lew stated terms of the Federal courts.

A person who has performed responsible judicial services for the United States ought not to have to wait from forty to fifty years for his pay. From May 24, 1853, until March 20, 1881, Edwin DeLeon was Consul-General of the United States at Alexandria in Egypt. At that time our Consuls in China and Turkey exercised certain judicial powers, including authority to try all citizens of the United States for crimes committed in those countries. In his judicial capacity as American Consul, Mr. DeLcon performed services during the period we have mentioned for which he was never compensated during his lifetime, although he caimed to be entitled under the law to $1,000 a year. His representatives have applied to Congress for the pay thus withheld and the Committee on Claims in the House has recommended that the matter be submitted to the Court of Claims for adjudication. The State Department contends that while consular officers in China may demand the $1,000 a year for judicial services, those in the Ottorman Empire cannot receive anything for this work. This question ought to be settled before an other half century has elapsed.

decided that the publication on Sunday of a judicial notice is ineffectual for any purpose been made. Many of these notices relate to the sale of property. A judicial advertisement of this character is declared to be not only an invitation to purchasers and an in citement to competition for the goods or land to be sold, but also a citation or notification to all parties to the litigation to attend the sale and protect their interests. Such a citation, it is held, can be served only on a business day and may not be effectively published on Sunday. The New Orleans Picapune is apprehensive that this decision may disturb titles to real estate in Louisiana, and remarks that the validity of Sunday advertisements in judicial proceedings has so seldem been questioned that the subject is almost a new one for the courts. Dubtless one reason for this is that such nonces are rarely printed in the Sunday newspapers. The decision is one which we should hardly have looked for in Louisiana, where Sunday observances are so much more liberal than in some other parts of the Union.

Mr. Justice Hatch of Buffalo took his sent as a member of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in this department on Tuesday, having finished his work in the second department in Brooklyn on Saturday afternoon when the Appellate Division there handed down decisions in eighty-three cases. On Monday there was a short but impressive leavetaking, when the Nestor of the Kings county bar, Hon George G. Reynolds, made a most Francis Navier Church, Anna Marie, daugnur of graceful address expressing the high estimat which the legal profession had formed of Judge Hatch's character and ability and wishing him equal success in his new field of labor. Judge Hatch was formerly District Attorney of Erie county and had been ten years a Judge of the Rev. St. Claire Hester, Je sie Lillian, daughter of Superior Court of Buffalo when he was elected in and Mrs. George W. Bigclow, to Mr. William | a Justice of the Supreme Court in the Eighth judicial district in the autumn of 1895. Upon the organization of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in January, 1896, Gov. Morton appointed him an Associate Justice of that tribunal in the Brooklyn department, where he has achieved the deserved reputation which led Gov. Roosevelt to transfer him to

On Tuesday the Court of Appeals in the case of Johnson vs. The Long Island Railroad Company announced this decision: CLENDINNING. - Friday, April 20, 1900, William | reversed and interlocutory judgment affirmed. | W., beloved husband of Susie E. Clendlaning, in | without costs to either party." We believe this is the action of electment brought in behalf of the Montauk tribe of Indians, after they were defeated in their first suit against the Long Island Railroad, which was instituted in the name of the tribe by Wyandank Pharaoh, their chief and king, and is reported in the twenty-eighth volume of the Appellate Division Reports at page 470. The opinion was written by Mr. Justice Cullen, who held that in the absence of any statute authorizing them to do so, the Montauk Indians, as a body or tribe, had no corporate name under which they could sue. The condition of the law seemed to be that while the Indians had an undoubted right to the beneficial use and occupancy of their lands, they had no means of enforcing that right. It was suggested that the Montauks should apply to the Legislature for redress, or that possibly a suit might be maintainable by a member of the tribe on behalf of himself and the other members. The latter suggestion was adopted in an action brought by one Eugene A. Johnson. His complaint was upheld by the Appellate Division (42 Appeliate Division Reports, 626), but the Court of Appeals appears to have decided against him on the ground that he has no legal

The London County Council, under an act of Parliament passed in 1898, have purchased and now operate a number of important street railway lines in London, which are there denominated tramways. From three of these tramways on the south side of the Thames, the Council have recently begun to run omnibuses across the river, over Blackfriar's, Wateroo and Westminster bridges. Their right to do this has been questioned in the courts, and on the 6th inst. the matter came up for determination in the Chancery Division before Mr. Justice Cozens-Hardy, in a suit brought by the Attorney-General to restrain the Council from running the omnibuses any longer. The earned Judge conceded that it was convenient for the public to have these cheap conveyances to the north side of the Thames and along the Strand, but he could find no authority for such an undertaking in the statute which empow ered the London County Council to acquire the tramways. The phrase in that statute authorizing them to do whatever was "convenient for working the tramways" was not broad mough to embrace the operation of terminal

We observe that the Court of Appeals on Friday denied a motion for a reargument in the matter of the application of Coleridge A. Hart. This must be the third, if not the fourth, application for a reargument. The case involves the claim of the applicant to the office of Justice of the Supreme Court n the Second judicial district (as the successor of Judge Calvin E. Pratt, who died on Aug. 3. 1896) on the ground that five votes were cast for him at the election in the following year, "for Justice of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy in place of Calvin E. Pratt, deceased." The Court of Appeals decided that he had not pursued the right remedy (159 New York Re-
